WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

ANN MAYHALL, on behalf of her Minor Child, D.M., individually and on behalf of all others similarly situated,

Plaintiff,

v.

AMAZON WEB SERVICES, INC. and AMAZON.COM, INC.,

Defendants.

CASE NO. 2:21-cv-01473-TL

ORDER ADOPTING REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

(FILED UNDER SEAL)

This matter comes before the Court on the Report and Recommendation of United States Magistrate Judge Michelle L. Peterson ("R&R") (Dkt. No. 87) on Defendants Amazon Web Services Inc. ("AWS") and Amazon.com, Inc.'s Motion to Dismiss First Amended Complaint (Dkt. No. 78). The Court has reviewed the R&R, Defendants' objections to the R&R (Dkt. Nos. 92 (sealed), 93), Plaintiff's response to Defendants' objections (Dkt. Nos. 98, 99 (sealed)), and

1 the remaining record.<sup>1</sup> The Court has also reviewed the transcript of the oral argument before
2 Judge Peterson (Dkt. Nos. 89 (sealed), 109) and finds another oral argument unnecessary (see
3 LCR 7(b)(4)). For the reasons stated in this Order, the Court ADOPTS the R&R and OVERRULES
4 the objections.

5 I. BACKGROUND

6 Plaintiff Ann Mayhall initially filed this case on behalf of her minor child, D.M. Dkt.
7 No. 1 at 1. The First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) replaces Ann Mayhall with Dominic
8 Mayhall, her child, who is now an adult. See Dkt. Nos. 72, 73 (sealed). However, the core of this 9 case remains the same: i.e., what involvement Defendants AWS and Amazon.com, Inc.<sup>2</sup> have 10 with respect to the biometric data created by players of NBA 2K, a basketball video game
11 published by Take-Two Interactive Software, Inc. (“Take-Two”) and its subsidiary 2K Games 12 Inc. Dkt. No. 93 ¶¶ 8–21, 132–65. The Court assumes familiarity with the detailed facts as 13 described in the R&R. Dkt. No. 87 at 2–4.

14 In brief, the relevant facts for the purposes of this Order (as alleged in Plaintiff’s 15 Complaint) are as follows. Plaintiff alleges that Take-Two utilizes Amazon services for, inter
16 alia, “servers, computing, hosting, storage, and delivery of its games and player data to Internet-
17 connected gaming platforms such as Xbox, PlayStation, Nintendo, and Personal Computers.
18 Dkt. No. 72 ¶ 9. Players of NBA 2K, such as Plaintiff, take and scan multiple photos of their 19 faces on the Take-Two app and upload those images to a Take-Two and/or 2K Games server to 20 create a custom player bearing the user’s face referenced in the FAC as a “MyPLAYER avatar.”

21
22 <sup>1</sup> The Parties each filed a public, redacted version and a sealed version of their pleadings. The Court references the publicly filed version of the documents in the remainder of this Order.

23 <sup>2</sup> In a footnote in their objection, Defendants state that they have “repeatedly told Plaintiff that Amazon.com, Inc. is 24 not a proper defendant.” Dkt. No. 93 at 1 n.1. However, Defendants did not move to dismiss Amazon.com from the FAC. Accordingly, the Court will not address this issue.

20 Defendants moved to dismiss the FAC under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).

21 Dkt. No. 78. Judge Peterson recommended that the motion to dismiss be denied, for the reasons

22 spelled out in the R&R. Dkt. No. 87. Defendants objected (Dkt. No. 93), and Plaintiff has 23 responded to Defendants’ objections (Dkt. No. 98).

II. LEGAL STANDARD

A. District Court Review of a Report and Recommendation

A district court has jurisdiction to review a magistrate judge's report and recommendation on dispositive matters. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b). The district court "shall make a de novo determination of those portions of the report or specified proposed findings or recommendations to which objection is made." 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b)(3) ("The district judge must determine de novo any part of the magistrate judge's disposition that has been properly objected to."). "The district judge may accept, reject, or modify the recommended disposition; receive further evidence; or return the matter to the magistrate judge with instructions." Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b)(3); accord 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). A party properly objects when the party files "specific written objections" to the report and recommendation as required under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 72(b)(2). Here, Defendant filed timely objections to the report and recommendation, and Plaintiff filed a timely response to the objections.

B. Motions to Dismiss

A complaint must include "a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2). In reviewing a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, the Court takes all well-pleaded factual allegations as true and considers whether the complaint "state[s] a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009); accord Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555–56 (2007). The Court "accept[s] as true all facts alleged in the complaint and construe[s] them in the light most favorable to plaintiff[,], the non-moving party." DaVinci Aircraft, Inc. v. United States, 926 F.3d 1117, 1122 (9th Cir. 2019) (quoting Snyder & Assocs. Acquisitions LLC v. United States, 859 F.3d 1152, 1156–57 (9th Cir. 2017)). While "[t]hreadbare recitals of the 1 elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements” are insufficient, a claim

2 has “facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the 3 reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 4 672, 678.

5 III. DISCUSSION

6 A. The BIPA Claims

7 Plaintiffs allege that Defendants violated Illinois’s Biometric Information Privacy Act
8 (“BIPA”), 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. 14/1 et seq. BIPA was enacted to help regulate “the collection, 9 use, safeguarding, handling, storage, retention, and destruction of biometric identifiers and 10 information.” Rosenbach v. Six Flags Ent. Corp., 129 N.E.3d 1197, 1203 (Ill. 2019). BIPA 11 “imposes numerous restrictions on how private entities collect, retain, disclose and destroy 12 biometric identifiers, including . . . scans of . . . face geometry.” Id. at 1199 (quoting 740 Ill.
13 Comp. Stat. 14/20).

14 1. Possession Under Sections 15(a) and 15(d)

15 Both Sections 15(a) and (d) of BIPA regulate any private entity “in possession of 16 biometric identifiers or biometric information.”<sup>3</sup> 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. 14/15(a) and (d). While 17 BIPA does not define “possession,” see 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. 14/10, the Illinois Supreme Court 18 has held possession “occurs when a person has or takes control of the subject property or holds
19 the property at his or her disposal.” People v. Ward, 830 N.E.2d 556, 560 (Ill. 2005). The R&R 20 found that Plaintiff plausibly alleged possession of biometric data because “the FAC alleges that 21 Defendants knowingly obtained users’ face geometry data from Take-Two and that it remains in 22 their control as they disseminate and store it on their servers.” Dkt. No. 87 at 9.

23 _____
24 <sup>3</sup> Defendants do not appear to dispute that the [REDACTED] constitute biometric data or identifiers under BIPA. See generally Dkt. No. 93.

1 Defendants' main argument in their objection on this issue is that the FAC does not 2 allege they had control of any biometric data, relying heavily on their characterization of their 3 services as "merely passive cloud storage services, without having any . . . control over[ ]how 4 Take-Two used those services or what data they transmitted." Dkt. No. 93 at 5 (emphasis in 5 original). Defendants assert that "AWS is a passive cloud storage provider, storing or 6 transmitting data that Take-Two exclusively owns, controls, and chooses to upload." Id. at 10.

7 While Defendants' characterization makes it seem as if a third party took all the actions,
8 that is not what Plaintiff alleges in the FAC. As discussed in Section I, Plaintiff alleges that

9 [REDACTED]
10 [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED]
12 [REDACTED]
13 [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED]
16 [REDACTED] Dkt. No. 109 at 22:23–23:11. Key to 17 this Court's analysis is [REDACTED]
18 [REDACTED] Id. at 24:9–
19 13; see also Dkt. No. 72 ¶ 148.

20 Accepting the facts as pleaded and drawing all inferences in Plaintiff's favor on a motion
21 to dismiss, the Court finds that Defendants stored, at a minimum, [REDACTED]
22 [REDACTED] so that they could cut down on the transmission latency and deliver that data quicker the 23 next time the game was played. In other words, [REDACTED]
24 [REDACTED]

1 [REDACTED] These choices
2 resulted in an action taken solely by Defendants and not any third party. To do this, Defendants
3 had to “take[ ] control of the subject property or hold the property at his or her disposal.” Ward,
4 830 N.E.2d at 560. The Court further agrees with the R&R’s conclusion that Defendants’
5 customer agreements and policies do not negate the FAC’s allegations. Dkt. No. 87 at 9.

6 Defendants cites in support of its position Kyles v. Amazon Web Services, Inc., No. 2021-
7 CH-04026 (Ill. Cir. Ct. Jan. 4, 2023), filed at Docket Number 77-1. However, Defendants admit
8 that in that case, “a third party allegedly stored fingerprint data using AWS’s cloud storage
9 service” so that Amazon’s customer agreement conclusively established that it could not access 10 its customer’s data. Dkt. No. 93 at 11. But here, the allegation in the FAC is that Defendants —
11 not a third party—chose to store the data on its servers. Defendant’s reliance on Street v. Lincoln
12 Safe Deposit Co., 254 U.S. 88 (1920), is similarly misplaced as Defendants admit that a third 13 party had “exclusive possession and control” of the liquor there. Dkt. No. 93 at 11. Defendants’ 14 “passive storage” argument relies on a third party having exclusive control of the data, but that is 15 simply not what is alleged in the FAC. And Defendants’ attempt to distinguish this case from 16 Clark v. Microsoft Corp., 688 F. Supp. 3d 743, 745 (N.D. Ill. 2023), which is cited in the R&R
17 (Dkt. No. 87 at 9), similarly fails because as Defendants admit, Microsoft (as Defendants here) 18 “exercised some degree of control over access to that data.” Dkt. No. 93 at 12 (emphasis in 19 original) (quoting Clark, 688 F. Supp. 3d at 749). The same occurred in this case where, 20 accepting the allegations of the FAC as true, Defendants exercised some degree of control in 21 deciding both to retain the [REDACTED] and where to store it on Defendants’ servers.

22 At a minimum, and as pointed out in the R&R, “there are still issues of fact as to what 23 possession and control Amazon has over the data stored on its servers that cannot be decided at 24

1 the pleading stage.” Dkt. No. 87 at 10. Therefore, the Court agrees with the conclusion in the 2 R&R that Plaintiff’s Section 15(a) and (d) claims should not be dismissed.

3 2. The Requirement to Secure Informed Consent Under Section 15(b)

4 Section 15(b) requires a person’s informed consent and release before a private entity
5 collects, purchases, receives through trade, or otherwise obtains that person’s biometric
6 identified or biometric information. 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. 14/15(b). The Parties continue to 7 disagree about whether an entity must take an “active step” to collect, capture or otherwise
8 obtain biometric information before triggering the requirements of Section 15(b) (compare Dkt.
9 No. 93 at 8, with Dkt. No. 98 at 11), and the R&R held that an active step was required. Dkt.
10 No. 87 at 10.

11 Defendants assert that the FAC does not assert any active step. According to Defendants,
12 the FAC merely states that when a user wanted to play NBA2K online, [REDACTED]

13 [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED] Dkt. No. 93 at 9 (citations omitted). Even if an active step is required, 16 however, for the reasons stated in the prior section, the Court agrees with the conclusion in the 17 R&R that to keep Plaintiff’s biometric data after the games ended, Defendants “necessarily first 18 had to [take steps to] obtain the data.” Dkt. No. 87 at 11 (internal quotation omitted) (quoting 19 Figueroa v. Kronos, 454 F. Supp. 3d 772, 784 (N.D. Ill. 2020)).

20 Relying on Zellmer v. Facebook, No. C18-1880, 2022 WL 976981 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 31, 21 2022), Defendants also assert that BIPA does not apply where a cloud service provider has no
22 feasible means of identifying and contacting those whose biometric information was collected
23 and stored in the cloud. Dkt. No. 93 at 14. The district court in Zellmer held “it would be patently 24 unreasonable to construe BIPA to mean that Facebook was required to provide notice to, and

1 obtain consent from, non-users who were for all practical purposes total strangers to Facebook,
2 and with whom Facebook had no relationship whatsoever.” 2022 WL 976981, at *3. However,
3 the Ninth Circuit rejected this reading of BIPA, finding that “the plain text applies to everyone
4 whose biometric identifies or information is held by Facebook.” Zellner v. Meta Platforms, Inc.,
5 104 F.4th 1117, 1122 (9th Cir. 2024). In particular, the Ninth Circuit noted that Section 15(b) 6 delineates between persons and customers, showing that non-users are protected “regardless of 7 any preexisting relationship with the party alleged to have violated BIPA.” Id. And Defendants’
8 claim that compliance would be impossible also seems exaggerated. See Dkt. No. 93 at 14. As 9 Plaintiff points out, Defendants already make BIPA disclosures and obtain consent prior to 10 collecting biometric data from the end-users of some of its other customers, requiring those 11 customers to disclose Amazon’s involvement in the collection, use, or storage of biometric data
12 and obtain BIPA consents and releases on its behalf. See Dkt. No. 72 ¶ 171; Dkt. No. 81 at 26;
13 Dkt. No. 98 at 17.

14 B. The Communications Decency Act

15 Section 230(c) of the CDA provides immunity to a provider of an interactive computer
16 service that a plaintiff seeks to treat as a publisher or speaker of information provided by another 17 information content provider. 47 U.S.C. § 230(c)(1); see also id. § 230(e)(3). Defendants’ 18 objection claims the R&R “incorrectly concludes that the CDA is inapplicable because 19 ‘Plaintiff’s BIPA claims do not treat Amazon’s conduct as publishing,’ but rather create a legally 20 distinct duty under BIPA.” Dkt. No. 93 at 13. In particular, Defendants state that Plaintiff’s
21 claims are premised on Defendants purportedly obtaining and dissemination (or publishing)
22 Plaintiff’s data to third parties and that, at a minimum, the Section 15(d) claim is barred. Id.

23 While all the claims involve dissemination of information, the heart of the BIPA claim is 24 that Defendants failed to obtain consent before any such dissemination of information. As

1 pointed out in the R&R, this is a legally distinct duty that “do[es] not derive from or even require
2 publishing—[the duty] arise[s] from Defendants’ alleged possession, use, and/or dissemination
3 of biometric data without notice or consent.” Dkt. No. 87 at 12 (emphasis added) (citing In re
4 Soc. Media Adolescent Addiction/Pers. Inj. Prods. Liab. Litig., No. C22-3047, 2023 WL
5 7524912, at *17 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 14, 2023) (“The claim alleges defendants failed to provide 6 required notice and obtain parental consent before collecting certain information from children.
7 That in no way impacts their role as publishers of third-party content.”). In short, collection or 8 possession alone, without dissemination, can trigger the BIPA duty.
